The Healthstat Story

Healthstat is a leading national provider of on-site primary care, high health risk intervention and disease management services with over 300 clinics in 24 US states. Our goal is to alleviate a corporation's rising cost of healthcare by improving the health of their employees. With the utmost discretion, you will help identify chronic health risks and work with the employee to manage their condition before it requires more serious treatment. We help you accomplish this through the implementation of on-site clinics, preventative care and wellness programs. In joining Healthstat you will become part of a passionate group of professionals who truly believe that the health of a company is rooted in the health of their employees.

The Healthstat mission is: to measurably improve employee health and reduce employer healthcare costs by providing personalized quality medical care through convenient, accessible and affordable onsite clinics.

To fulfill this mission, we operate in a culture of honesty, fairness and respect. We tell our clients, as well as our employees, the truth and strive to treat all fairly all the time. Everyone we come into contact with is treated with the same respect we expect to receive. We use qualified physicians, nurse practitioners and physician assistants to independently staff our on-site clinics, with nurse practitioners and physician assistants working under the supervision of a local physician. The clinics provide the opportunity to perform a full-array of medical services to a consistent group of patients.

What some current Healthstat onsite clinicians are saying:

“Over the course of the last year, I have witnessed first-hand what impact the Healthstat on-site clinic has made on the lives of the employees. Many individuals have been made aware of their increased risk of chronic diseases. By addressing their conditions, many employees have returned to the clinic to comment how much better they are feeling, what better quality of life they are experiencing and how the knowledge has put them in control of their health.”

“One of my favorite things about being a Healthstat clinician is the unique opportunity I have to implement wellness programs. At my clinical site, I met bi-weekly with 10 of the company's employees to offer support and education about weight management. After 3 months, these employees had a combined weight loss of 87 lbs. Becoming a Healthstat provider has been one of the top employment decisions in my 23-year career.”

“How many times as practitioners have we heard “I didn't have time to come back”, “I couldn't get off work” or “I couldn't afford an appointment”? Healthstat eliminates those common barriers. Employees who perhaps would never seek out healthcare providers are now able to have excellent care provided to them in an easily accessible environment. Having on-site nurse practitioners in the workplace is a wonderful concept.”

Our Experts in the Field

The men and women who are directly involved in the health of the employee are the lifeblood of Healthstat. By establishing a personal relationship with employees, you will bring a combination of compassion and expertise to the employers' existing healthcare program.

You will be part of a team that:

- Educates, explains and monitors chronic disease conditions and risk factors to employees
- Develops an individual healthcare plan for each employee to help lower their health risks
- Diagnoses and treats chronic diseases and acute/episodic occurrences through the use of labs and prescription medication
- Serves as an extension of their supervising primary care physician
- Refers patients with complex medical problems to a primary physician or specialist
- Implements wellness programs for weight management, diabetes management and many other topics

You will be able to develop valuable relationships with patients and provide the highest and most appropriate levels and frequency of care. This consistent care improves the outcomes of treatment.

As a Healthstat clinic provider you can utilize state-of-the-art healthcare technology to provide total population health management services. Managing those most at risk is critical, but it is just as important to identify and manage emergent risks. You will access all the information available to develop a personalized plan for each patient to meet specific patient needs.

Hands-on Healthcare

At Healthstat, we are looking for healthcare professionals interested in joining a company focused on improving health and providing hands-on patient coaching and care. We hire Medical Office Assistants who want to make a difference. Through the care you provide, you directly impact the health of the employee and the employee's company. Healthstat hires clinicians who understand the health impact that can be made by managing chronic conditions and providing patients unencumbered access to care.
